CONGRATULATIONS are extended to Leaders' Course Class No. 60 honor graduate, PFC Robert L. Morrow, by Major Carl D. Armentrout, Leaders' Course commandant. Graduation exercises were held last week. Maj. Gen. Frank H. Partridge, Commanding General, was the guest speaker. He stressed the importance of the Army school system in supplying leadership. (Signal Photo).

AT LEADERS' COURSE

General Partridge Tells Importance Of Schools

Importance of the Army school system in supplying essential leadership was stressed by Major General Frank H. Partridge, Commanding General, in an address delivered last Saturday at the graduation of Class 60 of the Leaders' Course.

The general was introduced by Major Carl D. Armentrout, commandant of Leaders' Course, and spoke preceding the awarding of certificates to 21 graduates.

Honor graduate of Class 60 was PFC Robert L. Morrow. The previous week's honor graduate was PFC Charles Miller who received his award during impressive ceremonies from Brigadier General Arthur S. Champeny, Assistant Division Commander.

In his address to Class 60, General Partridge pointed out that Leaders' Course is a natural stepping stone to Officers' Candidate School. He said that the two activities have recently become more important than ever before because the Army, now expanding, needs more officers.

General Partridge said, in part: "I find it an enjoyable task to congratulate you who are graduating this morning.

"The course you have just completed is a valuable part of the school system which the Army considers so important.

"Many of you who have finished the course will say, 'I'll never volunteer for another school.' I can share that sentiment, because I have spent many years in various schools—and I am confident you will find that the feeling will disappear."

of being able to think out and make decisions under stress, of mental alertness which gives the ability to grasp and exploit opportunities, and of the faculty of achieving a goal through teamwork.

"Army schools," General Partridge concluded, "have always been important. Under the tense world conditions today, I feel confident they will continue to provide essential leadership."

General Partridge then remarked that Leaders' Course is a natural introduction to OCS and reminded his listeners that the OCS course has been reduced to 6 months, with the period of subsequent service as an officer now 18 months.

The standards at OCS and Leaders' Course are on an equally high basis, the general said, and graduates of Leaders' Course will find that their work here will help them at OCS.

In all parts of the Army school system up through the General Staff College, the emphasis is on leadership, General Partridge stated.

All Army schools, the general told his audience, develop the military mind with its characteristics

Two Privates Refuse To Yield To Handicaps

The story of two men who earned themselves a place among the best soldiers of their outfits because they refused to give in during basic training to handicaps that could have brought them special consideration has been told by Colonel Weston L. Blanchard of Reserve Command.

The men are Pvt. Elmo O. Kienbaum of Battery C, 87th Battalion, Lt. Robert Simms, C.O., and Pvt. Rhys R. Reese, then of Company C, 95th Battalion, Lt. Carl Pruitt, C. O.

Pvt. Kienbaum, a slender and frail man, had a trick knee that would give out two or three times a day. Each time the knee gave out, Pvt. Kienbaum would lie in the dust while fellow soldiers manipulated the knee joint back into position.

Offered rides in a truck, Pvt. Kienbaum would refuse, saying, "No, I'll go along with the boys." He showed the same determination during the training march from Hunter Liggett, completing ten of the thirteen miles before his company commander was finally compelled to order him into an ambulance.

Pvt. Kienbaum eventually had to be hospitalized on 23 August. He has just returned to C of the 87th and will transfer to another unit to complete his basic training.

Pvt. Reese suffered from the handicap of being about 50 pounds overweight.

When truck transportation was offered, he like Pvt. Kienbaum, refused any consideration that would set him apart from the other men of his company.

Pvt. Reese dropped from fatigue during PT tests. Although his company commander told him to stand up and take it easy on the Infiltration Course, the trainee insisted on going through the course. He passed out at the end—but he had completed the course.

With his basic training over, Pvt. Reese is now in C of the 87th Recon and will go on to Cook School.

Of Pvt. Kienbaum, Col. Blanchard says, "We could use many more men with his courage." Pvt. Reese won this accolade from the colonel: "He was one of the best soldiers in the company because he tried so hard."

Colonel Assumes Duties At 412th

New commanding officer of the 412th Engineer Construction Battalion is Lt. Col. Donald Morgan, who replaces Capt. James D. Skadden. Capt. Skadden assumes the duties of executive officer.

Col. Morgan entered the service in 1942. He was Pacific coast map officer and was separated after almost five years of service. In March 1952 he was recalled to active duty.

He has worked on projects like the Grand Coulee Dam, Shasta Dam, the Central Valley project, the Redwood Highway and the All-American canal.

At the University of Oregon he served as Cadet Engineer, Colonel.

WAC Detachment Visited By Officers

The Post WAC Detachment was visited last Wednesday and Thursday by Lt. Col. Bernice Hughes, from the office of the Director of WAC, Washington, and Major Harriet Moses, Sixth Army WAC staff advisor from the Presidio.

Corporal Chosen Soldier Of Month

SELECTED as Daiglion Soldier of the month by Lt. Col. Ralph E. Glasgow, CO of the 464th AAA (AW) Battalion, was Cpl. Bobby F. McGhee, Battery A. In the near future he will compete for higher honors at Provisional Automatic Weapons Group Headquarters, at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Officers Inspect AAA Battalion

Three officers recently inspected the 464th Battalion in the East Garrison.

The visitors were Col. Stayton, G3, artillery officer from the office of the Chief of Army Field Forces; Col. Robert W. Hain, Chief of Staff, Western Army AA Command, Hamilton AF Base; and Lt. Col. Wiley F. Shaver, Jr., executive officer, Provisional Automatic Weapons Group (Calif.), Fort Baker.

Col. Stayton commented that he was well pleased with the status of training and apparent ability of the battalion to perform its operational mission.

Roberts To Aid Field Dedication

When King City's new War Memorial Athletic Field is dedicated on September 27, Camp Roberts will take a prominent part in the ceremonies.

The field and its new 72-bulb lighting system will be dedicated during half-time commemoration rites at a football game between Paso Robles and King City high schools. Major General Frank H. Partridge, Commanding General, will deliver the principal address. During the ceremonies, a plaque honoring the King City dead in World Wars I and II and the Korean campaign will be unveiled.

The 7th Armored Division Band will join musical organizations from neighboring communities to provide music for the dedication.

Classes For Radio 'Hams' Starts Monday

Classes for anyone interested in becoming a radio "ham" will be held Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 1900 to 2100 hours in Bldg. 7207, starting next Monday. Morse code will not be taught.

This activity is sponsored by Mars Station, 7th QM Battalion, under the direction of Lt. Col. Cyril A. Kelly. Classes will be taught by licensed amateurs at the station. Further information may be had by phoning Extension 610.

Enlarge Practical Nurse Training

The Army Medical Service will broaden its practical nurse training program this fall in an attempt to ease the critical shortage of nurses, according to the Armed Forces Press Service.

General Makes Informal Visit To Camp Roberts

Major General Ira P. Swift, new Commanding General of III Corps, Fort MacArthur, paid an informal visit to Camp Roberts last week.

Arriving by plane, General Swift came on-post Wednesday morning, 3 September, to become acquainted with Camp Roberts' training capacity and facilities.

The Fort MacArthur general later went to Hunter Liggett Military Reservation to observe a III Corps group preparing to test units of the 44th Division from Camp Cooke.

General Swift is expected to return to Camp Roberts soon to observe training methods.

Today Is Last Day To Register

Today is the final day to register in California for the November 4th election.

If you did not vote in either the primary or general election in 1950, if you have moved since, changed your name or wish to switch party affiliation, you must register.

Requirements for new voters are one year residence in the state, 90 days in the county and 54 days in the precinct. Deputy registrars are located in many surrounding communities.

PFC Aikens Cadre School's Top Man

Major Departing For Staff College

Major John B. McClure, Jr., Acting Deputy Chief of Staff, will leave Camp Roberts this week for the Command and General Staff College, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

The major will attend a 13-week course at the college and will return to Camp Roberts around Christmas.

EFFICIENCY AWARDS

Idea Presentation Aid Available To Personnel

The Efficiency Awards Program now in effect has as its executive secretary Mrs. Helen L. Horsfall.

She is available to assist military and civilian personnel in writing up ideas and suggestions. Mrs. Horsfall welcomes phone calls from suggestions that may be put into effect here. Her phone extension is 378. There are also suggestion boxes in many sections.

Ideas and suggestions that are put into use will get for the person behind the idea cash awards, citations, or other favorable recognition.

The program is a plan for improving management by providing incentives to individuals and units who contribute to an increase of operational efficiency.

A memo on the program states that "efficiency is the ability to produce the result desired without the waste of time, energy or materials." "A suggestion," says the memo "is a proposal. As herein used, it is a proposed way to increase efficiency."

Procedure calls for any individual with a suggestion for improving operations on which he is engaged to discuss it with his supervisor. If the supervisor concurs in the suggestion, it should be put into effect immediately.

Within 30 days a report should be prepared on 6AA Form 517 and forwarded through channels to the Efficiency Awards Committee. This group will decide what reward is appropriate, make suitable recommendation to the Commanding General, and, upon approval, arrange for presentation of the award.

Individuals with suggestions for improving operations on which they are not engaged may forward their ideas, in writing, through channels, or directly to the Efficiency Awards Committee or may put their ideas on WD AGO Form 89 and place them in suggestion boxes.

These suggestions, if considered feasible, will be referred by the Efficiency Awards Committee to the appropriate activity for implementation. Within 30 days the activity chief will report to the committee the results derived. If favorable, an award will be arranged.

Plastic Utility Boat Developed By Army

Fort Eustis, Virginia (AFPS)—A new plastic utility boat possessing greater speed and maneuverability has been developed by the Transportation Research and Development Station here as a replacement for wooden craft.

Battery Wins Mess, Company, Platoon Awards To Set Reserve Command Record

THE FIRST TIME that a company in Reserve Command garnered the best mess award, the best company award and the best platoon award occurred last week. The proud outfit is Battery A, commanded by Capt. Morie Bright. In the front

RECEIVING THE DIVISION'S Certificate of Achievement from Major General Frank H. Partridge, commanding general, is M/Sgt. Roy H. Harris, band first sergeant. He retired recently after more than 25 years of service, and was first sergeant in the band from 3 August 1951. (Signal Photo.)

CHAPLAIN'S MESSAGE

"Never Complain!"

By CHAPLAIN (CAPT.) ANTHONY J. SOKOL

"O my God, I will never complain." You will get to heaven by keeping this one resolution—"Never to Complain." We are always rebelling or inclined to rebel. Oh! how few are the exceptions to this sweeping accusation. We are all of us inclined to rebel, and most of us do rebel, and are perpetually rebelling. We forget the little compact that God enters into with all of us. It is this He says to each of us, "My child, walk on submissively in the stormy path I have marked out for you during your few years of trial here, and in reward of your obedience to my will, I will bestow on you an eternity of happiness."

This compact really exists; it has been made with every one of us. How beautifully St. Paul alludes to it. "For I reckon," he says, "that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that will be revealed in us." (Rom. 8, 18).

To survive you must struggle. Scientists tell us the greatest fighting animal of all time was the prehistoric saber-tooth tiger which had swordlike teeth extending a full foot from its jaw. It could kill without difficulty any animal that ever appeared on the face of the earth.

The most superb fighting machine Mother Nature ever turned out died because it was too good to live.

SFC Gordon Severson was recently sworn in as a second lieutenant of Infantry in the Organized Reserve Corps. He's an M. P. patrol supervisor and a Korean vet.

464TH AAA BATTALION

Soldier of the Week selected last week in competition was PFC Gerald Bailey, of D Battery. He recently finished taking a course in the Fire Control System on the T-38 at the AA and Guided Missile School, Fort Bliss, Texas. PFC Bailey is 19 years old and formerly of Nauvoo, Alabama.

RESERVE COMMAND

Company A, 95th HTB, established a new record in the Post blood donor program. According to officials at the blood bank, Company A had the least number of men rejected because of malaria or yellow jaundice. The spirit of this company is shown by one trainee, who was rejected because he was too young and tried to crash the line a second time. This, too, proved unsuccessful.

HOSPITAL

Cpl. Richard J. O'Connor, NCO in charge of the orthopedic clinic, received word the other day that he passed the GED college level test.

DIVISION BAND

Two small units of the band will be playing this week. The tenor band, led by Jerry Ferranto, and featuring Plas Johnson and Bob Rehula in the sax section, Cameron Thomas on bass, Dick Conrad on piano and Hank Smith on drums, will hold forth at the USO in Paso Robles Thursday and Saturday, supplying music for dancing.

DEFENSE OFFICIAL SPEAKS

Military Bills Praised, New Pay Boost Possible

Washington (AFPS)—Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg has declared that the pay increase given military personnel several months ago, while not adequate, was in the right direction and had a good effect on the morale of our uniformed men and women.

Road Project For Mission Short Cut

There is now a project to straighten the county road section of the Mission Short Cut and make it a three-lane highway as an access road.

When this is accomplished a new four-lane road paralleling Range Road will be built within the Post.

The Mission Short Cut route to camp is open from 0700 to 0800 hours for inbound traffic daily. Outbound traffic can use the short cut from 1700 to 1750 hours.

The county road has recently been repaired and is now in satisfactory condition.

The TIC topic for 15-20 September will be a discussion of the Army School System.

For every soldier there are many educational opportunities. This hour is designed to acquaint or remind the soldier of what is available to him in order to increase his knowledge or aid his military career.

Aside from USAFI courses, group study classes, GED tests, and other classes offered through the TIE program, there are various types of schools and courses established by the Army to provide military education.

There are long and short term courses, some leading to an MOS. These courses may be extension courses or may be offered by Branch Service Schools, Specialist Schools, technical schools, or troop schools.

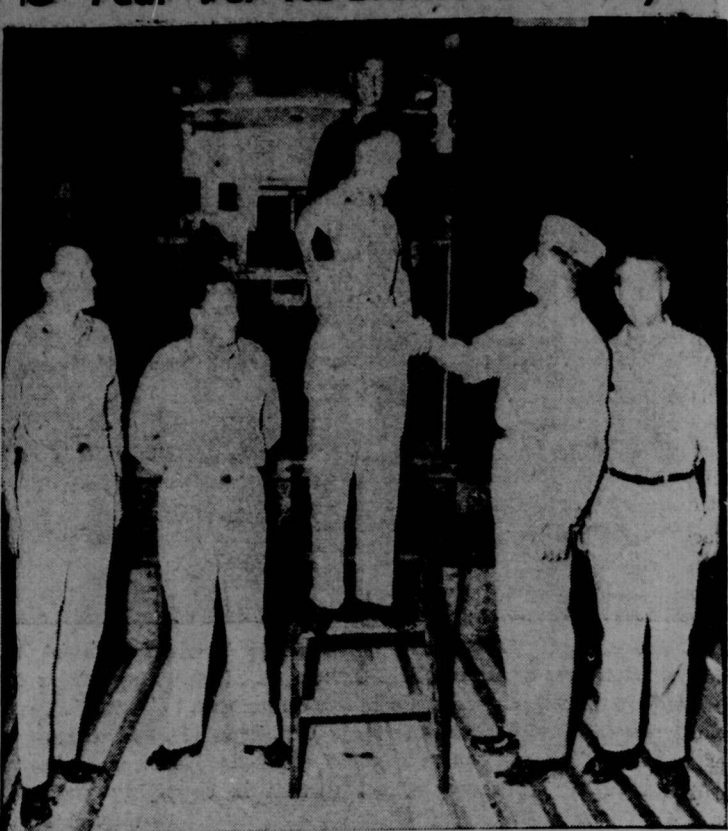

These schools and the courses they offer will be fully explained to the soldier at next week's TIC.

Need Adult Leaders For Local Scouts

A very earnest effort is now underway to recruit leading youth-minded men in communities of San Luis Obispo County to engage in leadership activities of the Santa Lucia Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Cadre School Graduates 23

Div Trains Cadre School graduated 23 men in ceremonies held last week. Brigadier General Arthur S. Champeny, Assistant Division Commander, was the guest speaker. Col. Theodore R. Kimpston, regimental commander, presented certificates of achievement.

There were actually three classes, extending from 2 June to 4 September. The idea for a cadre school in the regiment was that of Lt. Col. Harry D. Bland, commanding officer of the 129th AOM Battalion. Capt. Melvin W. Craghead was the commandant and Lt. Edward J. Gothelf, III, the assistant commandant.

Instructors were officers who taught the men advanced tactics, familiarization with all Infantry weapons, marksmanship, coaching, and how to prepare for concurrent training.

Special emphasis was given to physical training instruction and dismounted drill. The men were also taught how to deliver talks, with proper gestures.

During a three month period some 75 men, mostly Korean vets, graduated from the Div Trains Cadre School.

Use Vote Card

The Defense Department has issued an announcement from Washington urging all servicemen and women to utilize their federal voting postcard, if they are eligible to vote in their home state.

Colonel Vincent Here As New AG

Col. Willis E. Vincent reported on post last Saturday to take over the duties of AG.

Lt. Col. Frank R. Shinn, formerly Adjutant General, is now Executive Officer.

Colonel Vincent came to Camp Roberts from Alaska where he had been serving for three years as AG of the U. S. Army at Elmendorf Air Force Base.

Colonel Vincent began his Army career in 1916, serving on the Mexican border. During World War I he was an officer in the 27th Infantry in the Philippines and was stationed in Siberia from 1918 to 1920.

Between World War I and World War II Colonel Vincent was a Reserve and National Guard officer and served as Assistant Adjutant General of Oregon from 1928 to 1940 when he was recalled to active duty.

During the late war Colonel Vincent was successively AG of the 41st and 44th Divisions at Fort Lewis and Camp Polk and later served as AG of the 2nd Corps in Louisiana and over in England, France and Germany. He was later Chief of Staff of the 12th Armored Division in Germany.

Before going to Alaska Colonel Vincent served as AG at Camp Jackson, South Carolina, Fort Bragg, North Carolina and Camp Gordon, Georgia.

On a small service station at the edge of a Texas desert hangs this sign: "Don't ask us for information. If we knew anything we wouldn't be here."

Sportlight Focuses On Potential Hoop Champs

Clustka Skims Off Cream Of The Crop As Basketball Hopefuls Tryout

The round ball game was really bouncing last week as current hopefuls wore down their soles in an attempt to make the big league.

With only eight days left in which to skim off the cream of the crop for an All Army World Wide basketball team, Coach Chuck Clustka is gradually removing the obstacles in the way of his quintet choices.

Faced with a tough top-notch schedule which will be announced as soon as the dates are confirmed, Roberts will need a blistering hot outfit to blaze a trail to the big time. Fortunately, the material is there, and Clustka and his assistant, Lou Joseph, have their eyes wide open.

Chief among the new prospects are Jerry Raispis, Bob Magrick, Roland Jones and Don Borschlegle.

Jerry Raispis is a 6-foot-2-inch, 176 pound forward from the University of Detroit. A veteran of four years of high flying intercollegiate ball playing, the 24-year-old eagle eye is pushing for a varsity spot.

Bob Magrick, who incidentally is the same height, but four pounds heavier than Raispis, might sharpen the edges of competition for the forward position. Only 21-years-old, and with two years of mainliner ball on the Valparaiso University quintet of Indiana, the odds may fall in his favor.

Way down South in Southern Louisiana college was the stamping ground for 6-foot-2-inch Aubrey Cole. Twenty-four years old and tipping the scales at 170, Cole held down the forward notch for four years with ease.

The Bay Area's contribution is Rol Jones. The same height as Cole, and fifteen pounds heavier, he played havoc with San Francisco's City college opposition for two years.

Guarding for four years on the Peru State college team in Nebraska, Don Borschlegle is currently stretching his 6-foot-1 frame under the local basket in an attempt to ward off two point defenders.

So far practice has gone smoothly with 75 men turning out for the first workouts, however through the process of elimination the squad has been cut to about 40.

Coach Clustka has tentatively lined up scrimmages for the early part of November with the Santa Maria Dukes scheduled for first blood. This will be home ground for Clustka, who earned the distinction of being the finest fast-breaking forward ever to play on the club. The player-coach of Roberts performed for a year with the Dukes after completing his college eligibility at U.C.L.A.

The her 1 basketball mentor believes it is going to be a "tough season" and consequently he's literally working the pants off from the soon-to-be champions.

There is little doubt in anyone's mind that Scotty Steagall will be sorely missed in the lineup of this year's varsity. Scot was one of the main sparkplugs in the smooth functioning quintet which hit the top of the ladder.

One thing is certain, however, the "little field general," Frankie Kuzara, will be sinking them with ambidexterity. The second highest scorer in the All-Army tournament with 78 points, he not only headlined the ball handling antics of the Roberts five, but he used his noggin and guided the floor play of the champs.

So there's the set-up, now the elimination is under way, and from the enthusiasm and energy being expended on the court Camp Roberts has the odds in its favor.

All Star Boxing Program Scheduled For Camp Stoneman

The Camp Roberts boxing team will travel to Camp Stoneman on the 19th of September to participate in an All Star Boxing program.

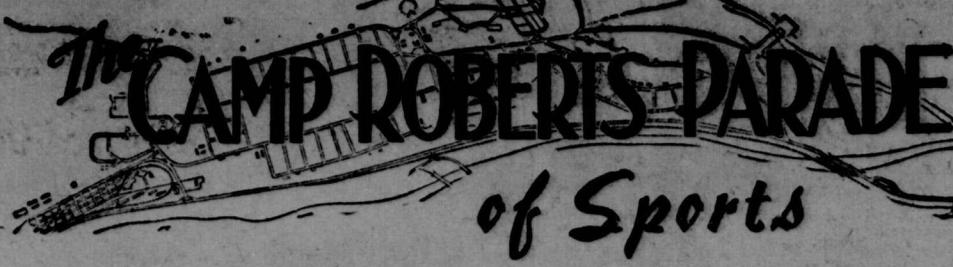

Featuring ten bouts the card will be sparked by top flight boxers, Jim Kinsey, Rex Summers, Mas Unemoto, Sammy LaCross, Charley Hair, Dennis Chaney, and Johnny Garrity.

Trophies will be awarded to the winners, and to the losers, with a special award going to the outstanding fighter on the card.

The purpose of the event is to raise money for the 1952 welfare fund drive.

LaCross Knocks Sealegs Off All Service Champ

The USS Valley Forge launched a fighting attack against the Roberts Army fighters Monday night on television, but it failed to reach its mark.

Grouped around their key man, Jim Womack, the Forge fighters tried to make it a clean sweep, but just managed to win two and lose two.

Womack, who incidentally is the 1952 All-Service lightweight champion of the Western Pacific, met more than his match in Sammy LaCross. Sammy overcame reach, height, and a flurry of rights and lefts to bore in for the decision in true Sixth Army championship style.

Aggressively pressing the battle, LaCross connected with a couple of potent left hooks to the soon-to-be battered head of the highly touted Womack. In the second round it was LaCross again finding the range for some telling points, but it was not until the last two rounds that the Army scrapper lifted up the deck and hit the Bluejacket with it.

Evidently the Navyman left his sealegs on board the Valley Forge because he kept backing up trying to find them in the third and fourth rounds, and Champ LaCross followed him all the way pushing home countless rights and lefts to the face and body.

There was no doubt in anyone's mind that the Roberts mittman earned the wrist watch award for the top performance of the Army-Navy evening.

Smoker Tonight

Yessir! It's true. That Boxing Smoker is going to be held tonight at the Sports Arena starting at 2000 hours.

Featuring approximately 12 bouts, with the majority of the fighters being provided by two companies, B of the 95th and D of the 77th of Reserve Command, there will be plenty of action.

So come on out, the admission is free and it's the best in entertainment.

This was Sammy's 36th victory in the fight game, and it was his 46th bout. That's not a bad record for anyone's money.

Camp Roberts Johnny Garrity, 135, lost his bout through a TKO in the second round. The Navy's Larry Bergeron, 133, pushed home a rugged attack which found Garrity's chin in the first round, flooring him for an eight count.

In the second round referee Mushy Callahan stopped the fight after Bergeron dropped the Roberts with a right to the chin.

"Boom Boom" Bolden lost a close decision to Abe Haynes. Holder of Alaskan welterweight title and All-Service of the Western Pacific, Haynes outpointed Bolden after a rugged four rounds.

Camp Roberts accounted for one other decision in the telecasts with Rex Summers getting the nod over Virgil Worton. It was Summers' fight all the way.

In a well-fought exhibition bout, the Roberts fighters, Mas Unemoto, and Arnold Worton provided the TV audience with a good showing with Unemoto coming out on the winning end.

Three Time Winner

Fl. Riley, Kans. (AFPS)—Paul Menking, hurler for the 85th Rgt. here, is carving himself a niche in Service baseball's Hall of Fame. The former professional player has chalked up three no-hit, no-run contests over the rival Divarty club. Included in his white-washes have been a total of 42 strikeouts.

After a 273 tie in the Detroit golf tournament in 1948, Lloyd Mangrum and Cary Middlecoff split $4,500.

SOCKO—PFC Harley Eaches, Reserve Command, connects for a good hit during competitive sports activities in DivArty's physical training school. Teammates Sgt. Joel Foster, Res-

Com. SFC Vine Edwards, DivArty, Sgt. Jesse Scott, CCB, Cpl. Don Lund, DivArty, and Sgt. Al Tenhover, CCA look like they're thoroughly enjoying the game. (Signal Photo).

ALL WORK and no play makes dull living, but the basic fundamentals of physical well being must be taught, and this is one of them. However, it looks easy and combined with a lot of games and competitive sports the potential PT instructors graduate well-qualified for their positions, and imbued with a high level of "esprit de corps." (Signal Photo).

BLUE AND GOLD teams under the direction of DivArty's PFC Jim McMahon, and Reserve Command's Sgt. Clyde Freeman push for all they are worth in an effort to grasp a victory for their side. This is just one phase of the well-guided physical training program to provide expert instructors for basic training. (Signal Photo).

Physical Training School Gives Balanced Program

Objective Is Physical Competition Through Sports In Addition To Army Dozen

By RIKK TAYLOR

When Lou Joseph got back from the Army Field Forces Physical Training school at Fort Bragg a couple of months ago, he had definite ideas about changing the physical training program for the basic trainees.

Today Camp Roberts is well on its way to having a standardized, well organized program of physical training thanks to Lou's ideas and the backing he received all the way down the line.

Fireball Ross Hurls Shutout In 6th Army Opener

Lefty Bob Ross, fireballed the Camp Roberts All Star baseball nine to a 3-0 shutout Sunday over Camp Stoneman in the Southern Division Sixth Army tournament opener.

The 21-year-old hurler put so much steam behind his pitch in the seventh inning that the ball went right through the mask of catcher Ray Burtner, breaking the cast-iron vertical protecting bar. Immediately taken to the Stoneman hospital, the veteran catcher, who has been on the receiving end of many of Ross' pitches, without incident, had to have three stitches taken in his lacerated upper lip.

Ross, who had a lot on the ball before he entered the Army, having played for the Kansas City Blues and the Washington Senators, piled up an enviable record during the season this year for Camp Roberts.

The southpaw established a southern division record by winning four games in the semi-pro tournament at San Luis Obispo, and won further honors by pitching the first no hit, no run game of the season against ResCom in the post competition.

Entering the Sixth Army playoffs at Stoneman with an overall record of 44 victories and only 3 defeats, the Roberts All Star team with Ross on the mound is expected to make a good showing in the highly spirited competition.

Regimental Trophy Presented To Top Softball Team

Sports booster, Colonel Augustus J. Renier, commanding officer of 6100 ASU, presented the regimental softball trophy to Cpl. Lars Mooney recently during a brief ceremony.

Mooney, captain and pitcher on the winning Detachment Nine team, which represented 6100 in the Inter-regimental softball tournament, accepted the trophy on behalf of his teammates. Finishing in fourth place, the softballers entered the Southern Division play of the Sixth Army at Fort Ord, and copped second place, dropping the final contest to the Camp Cooke Medics, 3-2.

The team is now competing for the Sixth Army title at the Presidio of San Francisco.

"Physical training is a misunderstanding," explains Sgt. Joseph. "Too many people think it is just pushups and exercises. That isn't true."

"It is a combination of activities. It should be a lot of games and a lot of fun."

That's what is taught to all personnel attending the classes. Lt. Colonel Lemuel F. Pratt, commanding officer of DivArty and a former coach at New Mexico A. & M. is 100 per cent behind Lou and his staff, and proud of the training the cadre are getting at the school.

Assisting Lou in his teaching job are PFC Jim McMahon, DivArty, a Texas A. & M. track and cross country star, Sgt. Clyde Freeman, ResCom, both graduates of the Fort Bragg school, and Pvt. C. D. Davis, a graduate of the local P-T school.

The men in the school are from all commands and are mostly vets of Korea. Both classroom and field sessions are the order of the day.

Classroom instruction includes such subjects as organization of athletic events, program planning, voice and command, first aid, posture, and physical fitness mechanics.

In the field potential P-T instructors practice and learn the games they will later teach the trainees along with the "Army dozen."

The plan behind the games is to give men physical competition through sports while at the same time exercising without the drudgery imposed by mass drills.

Lou's background for coaching the physical training is long and impressive. He spent most of last year with the Roberts basketball champions in their long travels that took them to the World Wide All-Army title.

As a coach at St. Anthony High School in Long Beach before he came into the Army, he put into practice what he had learned playing on championship basketball teams at both Compton JC in California and the University of Nevada. This civilian experience combined with the military, has proved of invaluable assistance to Lou.

Shoe Throwers Limbering Up

That familiar clang of metal against metal will resound throughout the Camp next week as the Post Horseshoe Tournament gets underway.

DivArty is way ahead of the field with Headquarters Battery scheduled to represent them in the contest. The team members will be Bob Arthur, Frankie Kuzara, Dave Caldwell, and Warren Scott.

Combat Command B is still running off their eliminations, however they have a couple of hot shots in M/Sgt. Ben Stringer, and Charley Gallaher. Both men are from the state of Washington, they lived within a few miles of each other, and to top it all off they both played horseshoes in Japan where they were stationed.

Currently all of the other commands are holding company level competition to pick the best men for the inter-regimental tournament to be held September 15-25.

Rodeo Sergeant Takes Top Spot

SFC Leon Caster of Leaders Course rode into first place at the Jackpot Rodeo at Solvang Saturday. Entered in the bareback event, the rodeo riding sergeant outlasted his opposition for the top honors.

A veteran of three years of competition in various rodeos throughout the country, Sergeant Caster has been riding since he was five years old. When he was fourteen he was thrown from a bull, suffering a serious back injury. The doctor told him he would never ride again, but like many predictions of this sort, it proved untrue.

Exactly one year later, Sergeant Caster was back in the game, only this time he skipped the bull riding and became a bareback rider.

Drawing a tough horse, Midnight, Jr., later in his rodeo-filled life, Caster was bucked off repeatedly, but finally rode him and took first place in a top-notch contest in Bentville, Arkansas.

Contest Starts To Name Service Club

A contest to name Service Club No. 1 is now underway according to Miss Dorothy Pekelder, director of the club. Anyone on the post may enter the contest by submitting an appropriate name. Write the name down, enclose your name and where you can be reached, and drop the information in the brightly colored suggestion box, located in the center of the club. "A clever name is desired," says Miss Pekelder. It has been the practice at overseas installations to name service clubs, instead of using only numbers. Some state-side clubs do the same. The final judging and selection of the name for the club will be held on 20 September at a "Back to school" party. There will be three judges: 1 enlisted man, 1 officer, and 1 female employee. The winner will receive a nationally-known wrist watch for his or her efforts in naming the club. Games of all kinds will be played at the party in addition to a fine entertainment program.

Special Services Show Featured Music, Dancing

The Special Services production of "Stars At Midnight" kept the stage well lighted with its many beautifully colored costumes and gay music and dancing at Theater No. 1 last Saturday evening. The production was produced and directed by Raymond Hollingsworth assisted by Joseph Pinkston and Jesse Tucker. Music was furnished by the Lucky Seventh Swing Band.

THE ENTIRE CAST of Special Services show, "Stars At Midnight," comes on stage at the conclusion of last Saturday evening's entertainment at Theater No. 1. The production was in charge of Raymond Hollingsworth, assisted by Joseph Pinkston and Jesse Tucker. The Lucky Seventh Swing Band furnished the music. Entertainment included eight lovely dancing girls, ballet, fancy footwork, singing, and several skits. The cast closed the show singing "Dream." (Signal Photo).

Variety-Musical Show Saturday

When the curtain goes up on the stage of Theater No. 1 this Saturday at 1930 hours, personnel will see a top musical-variety show. Some of the best night club, television, and motion picture personalities will be on hand to present a well rounded evening of singing, dancing, and comedy. Special Services says it promises to be a night that all will long remember from the entertainment viewpoint. The show will also bring some of the newest up and coming young stars to camp from the film capital.

Attend L. A. Fair Free This Sunday

Service men in uniform will be admitted free to the Los Angeles County Fair, in Pomona, this Sunday, as part of "Armed Forces Day" at the fair. Five service bands are scheduled to appear on the program, including the USAF WAF Band, March AFB Band, El Toro Marine Corps Air Station Band, Camp Pendleton Marine Corps Band, and the Sixth Army Bagpipe Band.

Monte Carlo Night At Service Club 1

The popular Monte Carlo night will be held at Service Club No. 1 on Saturday, starting at 1930 hours.

This is a once a month affair where personnel are given $190 in play money to try their luck at various games of chance, like black jack, dice, and roulette.

At the evenings end, prizes will be auctioned off for paper money.

Snap Shorts

When you have free time in places that are new and different, sight seeing is always a popular pastime. The smart sight-seer does much of his looking through a camera, so he can take the things he finds interesting right with him.

That's a cue for you the next time you hit a new place. And here's a word or so of advice about the pictures you take. Don't try to imitate the picture post cards. If you want those scenes, buy 'em. Take the kind of pictures that will say you were there. Picture the little things that particularly appeal to you.

For instance, when it comes to a monument of great historical fame, don't shoot just the monument. Get one of your friends into the act. But — don't let him steal the scene. Use him solely for a prop to add interest and emphasis to your primary subject. Don't let him look straight into the camera unless you are specifically taking a picture of him. Otherwise, you'll find that your main subject is lost in your snapshot.

Ernie Fields Show Plays Here Thursday

The stage at Theater No. 1 will be jumping next Thursday, 18 September, at 1930 hours. That's when the Crown Prince of Swing, Ernie Fields, brings his sensational orchestra, variety show, and revue to Camp Roberts. Mr. Fields, who was voted America's Number 3 band in the nation in Carrier's theatrical poll for 1952, will bring his star-studded troupe of top flight entertainers for one performance only.

It is expected that the show will give the personnel of Camp Roberts one of the most enjoyable evenings of entertainment.

Record Review

By PVT. JERRY LITTMAN

Here are some current recordings, mostly with vocalists.

"Hang Out the Stars" (RCA): sung by those wonderful kids, the Bell Sisters.

"Wish You Were Here" (RCA): Eddie Fisher turns in a grand job with his rendition of this popular tune.

"When I Fall in Love" (Columbia): Doris Day sings this, which shows in every song she sings, this record should go over.

"High Noon" (Columbia): From the picture of the same name. It's a different type of song with Frankie Laine on the lyrics.

"You Belong to Me" (Columbia): A lovely new ballad. Jo Stafford and Paul Weston.

"Have a Good Time" (Columbia): Keep your eye on Tony Bennett who does the lyrics.

"Slaughter on Tenth Avenue" (Capitol): This is a swell instrumental number by Ray Anthony and his orchestra.

Looks At Books

There's nothing like a good sea story, and here are two which are sure to please.

"THE SHINING TIDES" by Win Brooks is an interesting story of a group of people who live on, or visit seasonally, Cape Cod. Those who know the Cape (especially who have known the thrill of striped bass fishing) will elive their own experiences, feel the tug on their lines, and enjoy the thrill of the play. The author's most sympathetic character is Father O'Meara, the Catholic priest, who fights the temptation which drives him fishing for the great striped bass when he should be fishing for the souls of Manuel Riba, the young Portuguese fisherman, and Jeff Maddox, chief of a Coast Guard station.

If you're looking for a true story of sea life, read "HARPOON VENTURE" by Gavin Maxwell. You'll read about the five-ton basking shark—so called because it basks along the surface of the ocean eating plankton. Such sharks are numerous among the Hebridean Islands where the author attempted to catch and market sharks' oil and by-products. You'll read of the beauty of the Beteides and their sea and bird life.

So for books about the sea as well as many other subjects, visit your libraries.

Show Biz

WATCH THE BIRDIE!

Ray Jones, dean of Hollywood portrait photographers, has the difficult task of making movie queens look glamorous. "Actresses approaching 40 are the toughest to handle," Mr. Jones said. "They get bags under their eyes, their cheeks get hollow and they get that sagging, crepe neck that is a giveaway for age. It takes a lot of retouching to cover these things up. Nearly all actresses have certain traits concerning their portraits. Claudette Colbert can be photographed from her left side only. Shelley Winters does not take a good picture with her mouth closed. Ann Blyth won't permit cheesecake. It's a pleasure to work with a girl like Constance Smith. I can 'shoot' her from any angle and she always looks good."

TOUGH GUY!—Aram Katcher is probably the toughest guy on the screen. He's one of those character actors whose name you might not recognize, but whose face you've seen a thousand times. He's snarled his way through more killings than Bogart, Raft, Robinson and Cagney put together. His off-screen job between films will kill you, too. He's a hairdresser at a Hollywood beauty salon.
