ATOMIC ARTILLERY

The world is beginning to get excited about reports that the recent atomic tests near Las Vegas, Nevada, actually were success-

One Arab correspondent accredited to the UN cabled an Arab hospital where more extensive news agency that he had obtained positive information that the facilities for treatment are availnew American artillery marks another turning point in the his- able. tory of war and that if it is ever used in Korea, the Chinese armies will be destroyed in two weeks.

There have been hints in this country that the Las Vegas tests were blasts of atomic artillery. So it may be well to ask what is Calvin L. Weaks, Pvt. Maynard will be allowed to return to colatomic artillery and why is it so important, more important in Spears, Pvt. John H. Moore, Pvt. lege after serving. fact, than an airborne atomic bomb?

The big advantage of atomic artillery is that it would be a tactical weapon capable of being used in all weather and with they, and Pvt. Andrew J. Foster, great precision against troops in the field.

An airborne A-bomb is a strategic weapon of little value against troops in the field, even in large concentrations. It is too hard to hit a precise target in the field with an air-dropped the Military Air Transport Ser-A-bomb.

On the other hand, an atomic bomb fired from the ground Paso Robles Airport. like artillery and equipped with a radio proximity fuse can be aimed precisely from a hidden ground location. And when it hits, a whole enemy beachhead or a whole enemy sector of the front is gone instantaneously. An enemy concentration behind the line might similarly be wiped out.

An atomic shell would have to be used at least five miles from our lines, because its force would be equal to the blast that shook Hiroshima. There is no such thing as a small atomic bomb. As an Army ordnance expert told United Press Correspondent, Joseph Myler, in Washington last week-If this country ever has to go to war against the massed manpower of the Communist world, then "it would be far wiser to use atomic weapons against the enemy's armies than against his cities.' Atomic artillery would make that possible.
