PRESIDENT SIGNS

Passage Of K-Vet Bill Provides Many Benefits

Many benefits to veterans were provided when President Truman signed the K-Vet Bill into law. The bill, recently passed by Congress, provides education unemployment and loan benefits, as well as mustering-out pay and on-the-job and on-the-farm training to veterans who served in the Armed Forces on or after June 27, 1950.

The final version of the bill enables a veteran to attend school full time by providing $110.00 a month if single, $135.00 if he has one dependent and $160.00 if he has more than one dependent. Out of this amount the individual must pay all his expenses, including tuition.

For three-quarters time schooling, he would receive $80.00 single, $100.00 a month with one dependent and $120.00 a month with more than one dependent. Provisions are also made for half-time students and students who attend less than half-time.

No limitation has been set on the amount of money a student can earn privately. Schooling time will be computed on the basis of one-and-a-half days for each day of active service not to exceed 36 months.

Men who were on active service for less than 60 days will receive $100.00 mustering-out pay. Men with more than 60 days service who spent their active duty in the U. S. will receive $200.00 and men who served overseas will receive $300.00.

Those released prior to passage of the Bill will still be eligible for mustering-out pay on a retroactive basis.

The Bill also gives a flat $26.00 for 26 weeks to unemployed veterans. This payment will be carried out by each state and conform with its own labor rules and standards.

Home loans, farm loans, and business loans will be the same as those granted to World War II veterans.

Bill To Limit Reserve Strength Passes Congress

A bill limiting the size of Reserve Groups was passed by Congress and signed by the President recently. Provisions of the bill take effect six months from the date of the President's signature. The bill limits the strength of the Ready Reserve to one-and-one-half million men. However, all reserve obligations remain the same as set by previous bills.

The Ready Reserve may be called to active duty during an emergency declared by the President, but it is up to Congress to determine the number of men to be called.

The bill also prohibits the President from extending enlistments in an emergency without special legislation. The Standby Reserve can be called only in time of war or national emergency declared by Congress.

Also stipulated in the bill is the "sense of Congress" to recall those men who suffered the least hardship during their previous service. This particularly refers to Korean combat veterans who would only be available when others who had sacrificed less were already called.

The bill also makes officers' commissions valid indefinitely and retains the active duty contract clause for reservists. These officers who currently held reserve commissions can allow them to expire or declare in writing that they wish them to be indefinite.

Blood Center Open Tomorrow

Tomorrow is the final day this month to donate blood at the Post Blood Donor Center, Bldg. 312. The center is open from 0900 to 1100 hours and from 1300 to 1600 hours.

Every month a blood unit from San Jose arrives at Camp Roberts with complete facilities including doctors and nurses. There is a canteen at the center which provides coffee and juices for donors. This canteen is staffed by local chapters of the American Red Cross, who donate their time and the food.

New Educational Classes Offered

The Education Center is offering a class in bookkeeping which meets every Tuesday and Thursday from 1900 to 2100 hours in Eldg. 3045.

USAFI materials will be used and, upon completion, high school or college credit will probably be received by those attending.

Additional classes offered by the Education Center include auto mechanics, advanced typing, English, history mathematics and beginning typing.

Further information can be secured by calling extension 132 or visiting the Education Center, Bldg. 3044.

Corporal Honored

Corporal John W. Enos was selected recently as honor man in his graduating class at the 7th Quartermaster Radio School. He was congratulated by Major Donald A. Leed at graduation ceremonies. Corporal Enos is from Danville Illinois.

Honor Man Revealed

At recent graduation ceremonies at Wire School, Private John J. Grandstaff was announced as the honor man for his class. He comes from Wilsonburg, Virginia. Private Grandstaff was congratulated by Major Donald A. Leed.

Top Rifleman Of Cadre School

EXPERT RIFLEMAN—SFC Daniel T. Hall, Jr., was high scorer when the first class of Division Trains Cadre School fired on the M-1 range recently. Sgt. Hall fired a 245 out of a possible 260 points in a heated contest which found 26 of the 28 participants qualifying as experts on both the known distance and transition ranges. Sgt. Hall is from Los Angeles, a veteran of 14½ months in the Korean combat zone. He is the wearer of the Purple Heart with an Oak Leaf Cluster. The sergeant learned how to fire a rifle in civilian life, but attributes his success with the weapon to the method of instruction taught him by the Army, which he entered two years ago, and the experience gained in Korea. He is on TDY to the Cadre School from Company A, 31st AAA Battalion. The school, which is held at Company A, 129th Armored Ordnance Maintenance Battalion, has three classes underway at the present time, consisting of approximately 45 men in each class. Purpose of the school is to train students, all non-commissioned officers and almost all Korean veterans, to become exceptional leaders and proficient soldiers. (Signal Photo).

PRACTICAL WORK

Battalion Repairing "H" Street Bridge

Three officers and 115 enlisted men have started repairing and rebuilding the "H" Street bridge, one-quarter of a mile past the Camp Roberts Hospital. The bridge will remain open.

The men, members of Company A, 412th Engineer Combat Group, are headed by First Lieutenant E. M. Graham and M/Sgt. Kazvo Kanda.

The expected date of completion is 31 July. The job consists of removing old piles supporting the bridge and replacing them with 36 new pile bents.

These pile bents will be imbedded in six foot piers of concrete at ground level, and topped with a prefabricated structure to support the bridge. Three different examples of bridge construction will be used—self-suspension of the span, the Bailey type panels, and the ordinary shoring.

Other pertinent information on the project released by the battalion mentions that work will go on both day and night. Approximately 1,216 yards of concrete will be poured for the foundation.

Besides the work on the "H" Street bridge, smaller units of the 412th EC Battalion are engaged in various projects at Camp Cooke, Camp Irwin, Hunter Liggett Military Reservation, and Fort MacArthur.

Three Chaplains On FECOM Orders

Three Post chaplains, Captains Benjamin M. Weir and Vincent E. Cox and First Lieutenant Edward L. McCall, are on FECOM orders for September.

Both Capt. Weir and Capt. Cox have been serving as chaplains at Camp Roberts for a year. Captain Weir was formerly an Infantry officer in Europe.

Lt. McCall became an Army chaplain seven months ago and came directly to this Post. During WW II, he was an enlisted man in Europe.

The normal chaplain complement on-Post is nine men. At the present time, there are seven chaplains, including the three officers scheduled to leave for FECOM.

There are nine Post chapels, plus smaller chapels in the hospital and stockade.

ANNIVERSARY

"Lucky Seventh" Had Big Role In Armored History

Twelve years ago this month, the Armored Forces were officially recognized as an integral and important part of the United States Army, to the rumbling accompaniment of Nazi Panzer divisions.

On this 12th anniversary of that event, the 7th Armored Division, commanded by Major General Frank H. Partridge, looks with justifiable pride upon the glorious role that it played among the mighty American armored legions that went forth to destroy the vaunted Nazi Panzers.

Created in March, 1942, the "Lucky Seventh" first showed its deadly guns to the enemy on the Normandy Beaches on D-Day in 1944. The division's tanks, guns and armored infantry proceeded through France, participating in the battles for northern France, Ardennes and Alsace.

The 7th supported the British and Canadians in Holland, then absorbed the brunt of the German winter offensive, in the Battle of the Bulge. The division, helped collapse the Ruhr pocket, and swept triumphantly across the Elbe to effect a junction with the Russians as the war in Europe ended.

It was during the Battle of St. Vith in the Bulge, when von Rundstedt launched his winter drive in one of the Reich's last offensives, that the unit was dubbed "The Lucky Seventh." In addition to a discussion of the division's history, time will be devoted to an informal quiz on the chain of command.

For its dogged defense, the 7th Armored Division earned its title, and then moved on to lead the attack over the Rhine and into the heart of the Nazi regime.

Today, in the midst of another emergency, the 7th Armored Division is confronted with a different but vitally urgent mission.

Here, at Camp Roberts, thousands of new trainees have come out of the 16-week basic training cycle as qualified infantry soldiers since the Korean conflict began in 1950.

This Post is now the largest infantry training center on the West Coast. Training given here has been repeatedly commended by officers of high rank, including General Mark Clark, now commanding United Nations forces in Korea.

Thus, the Armored continues materially to aid the Infantry in accomplishing every mission.

Men Assigned To Phone Duty

Eight enlisted men have been serving as telephone operators on-Post, due to the lack of qualified female personnel. Although this is part of their training, it is only temporary duty.

Any women who are experienced telephone operators can contact the civilian personnel officer, Bldg. 3031, regarding employment.

The men operators, from Company C, 363rd Signal Service Battalion, are Corporals Jack Irwin and John A. Yankham; and Gunnery Sergeant Irvin F. Rosenberger, James W. Brown, Richard H. Avery, Ross W. Bearden, and Nathan Harding, all PFC's.

This is the first time that enlisted men have functioned as Camp Roberts telephone operators, except in times of extreme emergency.

Men Under 21 May Obtain Commissions

Appointments in the Army of the United States as second lieutenants may now be given to men under 21 years of age.

Effective for the duration and six months following the present emergency, ROTC and OCS graduates under 21 may be commissioned. Normally the minimum age for entrance into the officer status is 21.

MONEY SAVER—Mr. Ed Carroll, classification foreman of the Ordnance Section, points out the sign that saved the Army $10,000 over a two-month period, to Lieutenant Robert L. Williams, Cost Coordinator of the Post Comptrollers Office, Warehouse No. 955 in the Quartermaster area is the place for personnel to bring any type of ordnance equipment. No paper work is required and no questions are asked. (Signal Photo)

COST CONSCIOUSNESS

Ordnance Section Adopts Effective Economy Plan

A three-phase cost consciousness program has been implemented in the Post Ordnance Section by Major Roy A. Riddle, Post Ordnance Officer. The program has been so successful that the Sixth Army Ordnance Chief, Colonel Carrol Hudson, has requested information on the project, for its possible implementation in other Army installations.

The first part makes use of exhibits, placed in Ordnance buildings and the Post Motor Pool. One exhibit shows the various types of ammunition used by trainees on-Post and the cost of each item.

The items range in price from $58.62 for a high explosive 35 inch rocket to 8½ cents for a shotgun shell. Major Riddle pointed out that the cost of training a man in heavy weapons amounts to $1,415.30 for the ammunition alone. For a light weapons trainee the figure is $1,082.71 and for a basic trainee the amount is $235.56.

Another exhibit, in the Post Motor Pool, shows Ordnance equipment damaged through negligence and the reasons for the damage. Examples are improper use of equipment or failure to maintain equipment as authorized.

Phase two is also concerned with exhibits, but these are pictorial, and are also located in Ordnance buildings and the Post Motor Pool.

One picture shows weapons not correctly laid out for inspection which wastes time. Another picture shows the front wheel of a vehicle covered with mud. The driver of this particular vehicle drove off a surfaced road onto muddy terrain, thus causing damage to the Army truck he was operating.

An inspection-instruction team operates in the Ordnance Section under the supervision of Lieutenant Francis C. Keenan, WOJG Archie A. Warren and M/Sgt. Charles L. Brooks. This team is available to help TO & E units set up their equipment correctly for small arms parts. They help in building chests for storing these parts for ready identification and issue.

All these exhibits are available for use by company commanders to assist them in familiarizing trainees with the Army's cost consciousness program.

Another interesting phase of the program is the Ordnance Section Warehouse, Bldg. 955. Any ordnance equipment, weapons or parts of weapons, ammunition and vehicles and parts of vehicles found by trainees or other personnel can be turned into the warehouse without any questions asked.

A sign at the warehouse reads "All ordnance property found on-Post can be turned in here. No paper work required, no receipts issued and no questions asked. Eliminate waste and save for safety."

Since this project has been in operation the past two months, $10,000 worth of property has been turned in. This is one practical part of the cost consciousness program.

The Post Motor Pool, inspections are made on vehicles, and if deficiencies are revealed a survey is conducted. If the driver is found responsible for the damage he is made to pay for that damage. Damage to vehicles has been cut down 75 per cent because of this.

Provost Marshal Leaves For FECOM

Camp Leads Area In Blood Giving

Camp Roberts took top honors in the Sixth Army area Armed Forces Blood Donor Program with a total of 1,325 pints of blood collected during the month of May, according to statistics just released.

Following behind Camp Roberts were Camp San Luis Obispo with 1,168 pints, Camp Cooke with 780 pints, and Fort Lewis with 713, collected during the same period.

In the over-all picture, Camp Roberts stands second in the amount of blood collected from October, 1951 to May of this year. Fort Lewis led with 11,025 pints, and Camp Roberts followed with 10,947.

Colonel Jolly New Roberts G-4 Head

Lieutenant Colonel Byron F. Jolly, Post Quartermaster, was recently assigned as Assistant Chief of Staff, G-4. He replaces Lieutenant Colonel Willoughby B. Tyler, who has left the Post to attend the Naval War College in Newport, Rhode Island.

Prior to his Quartermaster assignment on-Post, Lt. Col. Jolly spent 33 months with GHQ in FECOM, Tokio.

Menus Coordinated With Temperature

The Post Menu Board strives to coordinate menus with the temperature since climate has a bearing on the amount of food consumed.

The Camp Roberts Parade is published weekly under the supervision of the Troop Information and Education Office, Camp Roberts, California. This news medium is an authorized publication published by and for the military and civilian personnel of Camp Roberts. CHAPLAIN'S MESSAGE

"Clear The Remnants"

In the process of creating a work of art, remnants are found which must be cleared away before the masterpiece stands out in its maximum degree of symmetry and refinement. A new church building, for example, does not become fully impressive and worshipful until the unused lumber, sand, cement, stones, and pieces of tile or steel are removed.

Truman Advises Vets To Shun Presidency

Washington (AFPS)—To 16 infantrymen taking a guided tour of the White House recently, President Truman offered some advice: "I know you will like it, but I wouldn't advise any of you to have the ambition to move in."

The group was part of the first 406 American troops to go into combat in Korea. The President greeted them on Infantry Day and admitted that the U.S. could "not fight a war without the Infantry."

TRAILER LIVING—This is the trailer home of Lieutenant Ramon Pickering and his family. Lt. Pickering, assistant Post Exchange officer, has been living in trailers for several years with his wife and two daughters, aged 2 and 4. The 2-year old girl has always lived in a trailer. The PX officer says he likes trailer living because it's a good way to travel and when he's assigned to different Army installations, there's no housing problem with a trailer.

Trailer Dweller Finds Advantages For Families

Economy is one of the main advantages in trailer living, according to Lt. Ramon Pickering, assistant post exchange officer, who has been living in trailers with his family since 1950.

Lt. Pickering remarked that trailer living isn't as expensive as rent, once the initial down payment is made, and furniture doesn't have to be moved around and thus depreciate in value.

Two other advantages are the fact that you have a home wherever you are and people with children don't have any difficulty in finding places to live.

Furthermore, trailer living is good for children because they learn that everything has its proper place—space is limited. Living habits don't change. The children sleep in the same beds in the same room all the time.

Early in 1950, Lt. Pickering, a veteran of 15 years in the Army, became a traveling instructor and realized that in order for him to be with his family, which consists of his wife, and two daughters, aged 2 and 4, the purchase of a trailer would be almost essential.

Since 1950, he has traveled some 20,000 miles, arriving at Camp Roberts in April.

In an interview he made two suggestions to trailer owners and prospective owners. Most auto insurance policies carry a clause stating that the policy is voided when the auto pulls a trailer. Usually by paying an extra premium, the policy stays in force.

Another hint concerns the size of the car necessary to pull a trailer. Heavier than most trailers, Lt. Pickering's weighs 10,000 pounds. But his car has only a 115 horsepower engine.

VISITING CHAPLAIN

Lieutenant Colonel William L. Bolton, Chaplain Corps, from Fort Rosecrans, is spending several weeks on-Post conducting character guidance classes. He is chaplain of the 6215th ASU, and during the war, was chaplain of the 38th Infantry Div.

PLAY IT SAFE! It Pays To Purchase Travel Tickets On-Post

A warning from the Post Transportation Officer, Lieutenant Colonel Alma S. Packer, suggests that military personnel purchase transportation tickets from authorized representatives in the troop movements section of the Transportation Office, Bldg. 3031, or the bus representative in the bus terminal.

Post AER Drive Receives Thanks From Fund Head

The director of Army Emergency Relief, Edward F. Witsell, major general, USA, retired, recently wrote Major General Frank H. Partridge, Commanding General, a letter of thanks for the 1952 joint fund campaign of the AER and the Army Relief Society.

He wrote, "such a degree of support would not be possible without the stimulus of your personal cooperation, interest and support and the enthusiasm and hard work on the part of those conducting the campaign."

"I hope that as a result of the campaign the members of your command know the type of financial assistance which AER is prepared to render to them and their families and that AER may serve you well as an instrument of welfare and morale."

AAA Mechanic Is Soldier Of Week

Corporal Billy L. Culbertson was selected the 46th AAA Battalion's Soldier of the Week by three staff officers, Captain Bernard Applefield, S-2, Lieutenant Mitchell Orr, adjutant, and Lieutenant Owen Gooch, communications officer.

The AAA mechanic was selected over representatives of four other batteries in the battalion on the basis of all-around military bearing and courtesy and knowledge of his job.

By virtue of the selection, he is entitled to a three-day pass and will receive a letter of commendation from the battalion commander, Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Glasgow.

He will compete with representatives of other battalions in San Francisco for the title of Group Soldier of the Month.

Colonel Powers Assigned Here

Colonel John J. Powers has been assigned to Camp Roberts as Post Quartermaster Officer.

Previously he was on duty with the Career Records Analysis Branch at the Pentagon, Washington, D. C. for two years. He enlisted in the Army in 1917 and was commissioned in 1918.

Stamp To Honor Charter Signing

The U. N. Postal Administration has announced that the first U. N. commemorative postage stamp, a five cent blue, will go on sale Oct. 24. More than six million copies of the stamp will be issued.

These representatives operate under the direct jurisdiction of Col. Packer. When a ticket is purchased from them, personnel can be assured that reservations have been made and confirmed and that they will be carried to their destination.

Personnel who are having difficulty in collecting a promised refund or have had any unsatisfactory dealings with any agent should report the details to Col. Packer or the Provost Marshal.

The Transportation Office remarks that to play it safe and for your own convenience and protection, buy your transportation tickets from the authorized on-Post representatives.

Troops Renovate Old Buildings To House Vehicles

When the 26th Transportation Truck Battalion returned to camp from Exercise "Longhorn" in Texas and the atomic blasts at Desert Rock, Nevada, they found there were no buildings to house and maintain their vehicles.

They pitched tents and then, mostly on their own time, they renovated old buildings near their camp site in the East Garrison. These buildings have not been used since 1945 when they housed prisoners of war.

The unit which consists of six truck companies, continued training and giving each vehicle first and second echelon maintenance checks every time it was driven.

This kept the machines in first class working order at all times and enabled the mechanics to correct any faults which could have developed into serious trouble.

There's a reason for "roughing it," according to the battalion commander, Lieutenant Colonel M. A. Olsen. He says, "except for camouflage it is comparable to combat conditions. The men use their initiative and ingenuity to better their situation which results in a considerable saving to the government."

Families Move To Almond Acres

Sixty-two families have already moved into the one-bedroom and two-bedroom homes at Almond Acres, near Camp Roberts, it was announced this week by the Office of the Post Housing Director.

Work is continuing at both Almond Acres and the Post Trailer Park. Additional lists of persons eligible for Almond Acres will be available shortly.

Honor Graduate Congratulated

DOUBLE HONORS—Private First Class Dorian R. Faber receives the congratulations of Major Carl D. Armentrout, Leaders' Course commandant, for being the honor graduate of his class and the recipient of the American Spirit Honor Medal. PFC Faber entered the Army in December, 1951, and is now awaiting orders for Officers' Candidate School. Earlier, PFC Faber had attended Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, in preparation for a career as a doctor.

Posters Portray Army Battles

A set of posters, currently on display at Troop Information and Education bulletin boards throughout the Post, portrays the drama of the Army's role in America's fight for freedom since 1776.

Issued by the Department of the Army, the posters show the struggle at Trenton in 1776; the battle on the banks of the Maumee River in Ohio, in 1794; the battle of Chippewa in 1814; the battle at Resaca de la Palma in 1846; the battle at Vicksburg during the Civil War; and the defense of Bataan in 1942, during World War II.

Most outstanding is the poster depicting the famous World War I struggle near Mezy, France in July, 1918. This was final important thrust against the Allies by the Germans.

Roberts Trainee Honored At School

Private Calvin E. Yelton, who received his basic training here, graduated recently from the Fort Ord Unit Supply School as the honor student. He had an all-time high score of 95.13 points.

While at Camp Roberts, Pvt. Yelton took his training with Battery C, 440th AFA Battalion. Before entering the Army, the 22-year old private attended Lower Columbia Junior College and worked as a policeman in Kelso, Washington.

VA Delays Homes Near Airports

Veterans purchasing homes within four miles of airports used frequently by military or commercial aircraft may experience a slight delay in having their loans approved.

A recent VA order sent out to its 68 loan guaranty offices throughout the country makes it mandatory for all loan appraisals of this type to be referred to the main Veteran Administration headquarters in Washington. The order, however, in no way restricts the approval of the loans.

The object of the Washington referral is further to protect veteran by standardizing the "reasonable value" appraisals on loans used to purchase homes near busy airports.

Army Increases Draft Quotas

Washington (AFPS)—The Army has announced a 30,000 draft call for September along with an increased quota of 54,000 men a month beginning in October.

The increased draft calls are necessary to replace men inducted in late 1950 and early 1951 who are scheduled to be discharged soon. The September quota will bring the number of men drafted since the outbreak of the Korean conflict to more than 1,000,000.

"Chef de Cuisine Photographer"

FAITHFUL SERVICE—George Aerne, photographer for Shannon Photo Service, was presented a certificate for faithful service to the Food Service School at the school's graduation at East Garrison last Friday. The certificate stated: "This is to certify that George Aerne has satisfactorily completed the course of instruction in Chef de Cuisine Photographer, given at Sixth Army Food Service Sub-School, this 16th day of July, in the year 1952." The certificate was signed by the Commandant of the school, Captain Frank H. Gisondi, who also made the presentation. In the past 18 months, Mr. Aerne has photographed every class of the school. Watching the presentation are graduating members of the Food Service School.
