CASE HISTORY

Unknown X-7834

United States Military Cemetery St Avoild (France)

1. The remains of X-7834 were recovered from the civilian cemetery at Hochmutting, Germany, along with numerous other American known and unknown deceased. These remains were segregated from a mass burial of three, that was shipped to USMC St Avoild under the evacuation numbers 1F6-(3F9025A) and 1F7-(3F9025B). 1F6-(3F9025A) was redesignated X-7834 and 1F7-(3F9025B) became X-7832. A later reprocessing of the subject deceased revealed a third remains. These remains were designated X-13207 and were later consolidated with the remains of 2nd Lt John R. Julianelle, O-829918. An identification tag bearing the name and ASN of S/Sgt Herbert D. Walton, 39286723, was found among the mass burial of these remains and is, at present, with the case papers on X-7834. Since six identified crew members of the air-craft of which Sgt Walton was a crew member were recovered from Hochmutting, it is believed that his remains were also interred there; however, the tooth charts for X-7832 and X-7834 compare negatively with the dental data on Sgt Walton and no other unknown deceased from that isolated grave location could be associated. Physical and dental data on unresolved casualties, reported missing within the Germany M-49 area, was checked against like data on X-7832 and X-7834; however, no reasonable comparison, that would possibly lead to the identification of the deceased, could be made.

2. In view of the foregoing, it is recommended that the case on X-7834 be declared UNIDENTIFIABLE.

3. The case on X-7832 is also in the process of being declared unidentifiable.

This dental chart is very important and should be filled in with great care. There are 32 teeth to be accounted for, as shown by the numbers on the chart. Beginning at the middle line in both upper and lower jaws, the teeth are arranged symmetrically on either side and classed as incisors (cutting teeth), cuspids or canines (tearing teeth), bicuspid (chewing teeth), and molars (principal chewing teeth). An examination should be made and findings charted to cover the following basic conditions: Lost teeth, crowned teeth, bridge work, fillings, caries (cavities of decay), dentures (plates), and any deformity of jaws found. See reverse side for illustrations.

This dental chart is very important and should be filled in with great care. There are 32 teeth to be accounted for, as shown by the numbers on the chart. Beginning at the middle line in both upper and lower jaws, the teeth are arranged symmetrically on either side and classed as incisors (cutting teeth), cuspids or canines (tearing teeth), bicuspids (chewing teeth), and molars (principal chewing teeth). An examination should be made and findings charted to cover the following basic conditions: Lost teeth, crowned teeth, bridge work, fillings, caries (cavities of decay), dentures (plates), and any deformity of jaws found. See reverse side for illustrations.
